

ROSE GARDEN MAP

THE Wyck Rose Garden in Germantown, Philadelphia dates to the 1820s and is widely recognized as the oldest rose garden in its original plan in America, with 50+ cultivars of historic roses. Included in the garden are the original rose plants from the 19th century design, as well as plants from the 18th century kitchen garden. Several roses in cultivation today had been thought lost until they were discovered growing at Wyck, and all specimens of these varieties in commercial trade today descend from Wyck plants.
